

CONGRESS MUST DEFEND FINANCES AGAINST PANICS

Senator Aldrich Pleads for the Adoption of New Banking Measure.

SYSTEM "PATCHWORK."
Reconstruction of Currency
Not Possible Now in Time of Emergency.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 10.—Senator Aldrich today made a lengthy address on his bill to amend the National Banking laws.

Reviewing the details and causes of the financial crash of October, the Senator declared that neither the strength of or monetary system nor the extraordinary efforts made to avert the disaster could have prevented it. The increase of deposits in New York by the Secretary of the Treasury and all the other measures to relieve the consequences had been sufficient.

Should the experience be repeated, said the Senator, the same methods of relief would not be available. The Treasury is not likely to be in condition to make increased deposits; gold may not be in ready command; and men of patriotism, courage and capacity may be lacking.

Won't Tolerate New Crashes.
"The suspension of bank payments with its resulting strain upon the credit of the country and its resources will not be tolerated again," declared the Senator.

"While the general conditions have improved and are improving there are still many causes for disquiet in industrial and financial circles. It is quite probable that there will be considerable additions to the army of the unemployed, and it is quite impossible for any man to predict, with any degree of confidence, what the industrial and financial condition of the country will be next autumn.

"In any event, if the business interests of the country are left defenseless through the inaction of Congress, the most serious consequences may follow. Under these circumstances I believe it to be the imperative duty of Congress, in their wisdom, to provide some means of escape from another calamitous crisis. The expedients which the responsible officers of the Government and of the great financial institutions were obliged to adopt in the panic of 1897 point the way to effective curative legislation.

"There seems to be but one way in which this can be accomplished, namely, by some provision for the authorization of additional notes to be used only in emergencies. The Committee on Finance, with practical unanimity, arrived at the conclusion that it would not be possible to secure this relief by the adoption at this session of any measure which should provide for the thorough revision and reconstruction of our monetary system, however advisable such a course might be in the future.

State Bonds Are Government's.
"The plan of the bill restricts the securities to be accepted under its provisions to Government issues and the bonds of railroads that are in the hands of the Government. I think I am justified in designating such securities as Government securities, and as such, they will be accepted by the Government and will be used to maintain the credit and facilitate the borrowing of money by the Government.

I think I am justified in designating such securities as Government securities, and as such, they will be accepted by the Government and will be used to maintain the credit and facilitate the borrowing of money by the Government.

Present System Patchwork.
"While our existing currency system may perhaps be fairly characterized as a patchwork, it is not, as some have said, a patchwork of elements which seem, perhaps, diverse and unharmonious, as a whole it has answered well the purpose for which it was created, and none of its elements is dangerous in character. Changing conditions have undoubtedly made for some modifications from time to time, possibly these changes may necessitate an entire revolution, like of notes and of the plan for their issue, but we cannot lose sight, so far as the present is concerned, of the central and dominant fact that this great mass of currency every dollar of which is equal in value and rate to the best money in the world, has not in the least degree checked the rising tide of our nation's progress and prosperity.

If elasticity in times of financial distress, as we believe it is, is the full remedy, the Finance Committee, under this bill, has provided a certain class of bank managers as an evidence to my mind that these officers do not really desire elasticity, but a continual and unlimited expansion with the expectation of constantly increasing gains."

A large number of bankers were present. Edmund B. Morgan, of New York, who occupied a seat in Vice-President Fairbank's row, and who came from New York for the purpose of opposing the bill, was also present.

LAW CLERK IN DROEGE'S OFFICE UNDER ARREST

Irving Cohn, Known as "His Honor's Secretary," Accused of Practicing Law Illegally.

Irving Cohn, a clerk in Magistrate Droegge's law office, known around the Night Police Court as "His Honor's Secretary," was placed under arrest this afternoon in the Criminal Court Building by Detective Lieutenant Fitzsimmons, of the District Attorney's staff. The charge against him is practicing law illegally.

Cohn's arrest grew out of the investigation of the World into the practice of grafting in cases of unfortunate women in the Night Police Court. Magistrate Droegge tried to have reports to the press from publishing the facts they had gathered about this matter.

It is expected that Cohn will tell the District Attorney how women who had been committed to Magistrate Droegge's office for long terms were released on parole within a day or two after receiving without any trial or hearing the money for their release, the transactions being made on the records of the court, as the law prescribes. It is common talk in the Tenderloin that the women paid for their parole money, but the District Attorney had considerable difficulty in finding out the money. Magistrate Droegge said he was in ignorance of the whole thing.

THREE MEN CHARGED WITH BURGLARIES IN BRONX.

Storekeepers Have Been Victims of "Fanlight Thieves," Who Have Taken Much Loot.

George Ernest, of No. 40 East One Hundred and Sixty-fourth street, Forest Park, was arrested yesterday afternoon and charged with the burglary of a store in the Bronx.

The three men were arrested by Detective Curley and Bezer, of the Bronx Detective division, upon the complaint of several Bronx storekeepers. There have been many robberies in the Bronx of late by what are called "fanlight thieves," who enter stores through the fanlight in the rear of the building and take what they can find.

STOCK MARKET HAMMERED HARD

Close Shows Figures Down 2 to 3 Points After Steady Decline.

The stock market opened down today. Opening prices were from 1 to 2 points below Saturday's closing prices. Reading, the Pacifics and Sugar were the most active and weaker features.

As trading continued prices still declined but at the end of an hour's trading prices hardened and began to climb up. The opening figures, but with the little improvement shown the whole market was about a point under Saturday's closing.

Following are some of the losses: Reading, 134 points; Northern Pacific, 184; Union Pacific, 138; Great Northern, 1; Sugar, 214; Smelting, 114; Canadian Pacific, 212.

The market was extremely weak all through the morning. Union Pacific was the center of attack. The price of that stock was forced down to 114. The rest of the issues showed losses of from 2 to 4 points, and in some instances the price of stock fell to the lowest of the year.

Money on call steady at 2 per cent. Prime mercantile paper 3 1/2 to 4 per cent.

Stocks closed around the lowest of the year, with losses at from 2 to 3 points. Trading was active.

The closing prices, of stocks and bonds, as compared with Saturday's closing figures are as follows:

GIRL SHOT IN STREET CAR THE VICTIM OF A GIRL COMPANION.

from the Bowery the young man in the gray coat and hat, who was carrying a revolver, stepped out of the car and walked toward the girl in the Gainsborough hat. Then the girl they called "Queenie" tipped across the aisle and deftly lifted his watch and fob and pin. She did this so gracefully and openly that everybody laughed—everybody but the girl in the big hat.

Passengers Tired of Antics.
When "Queenie" dropped back into her seat again she passed the jewelry across the lap of the stock young man to the girl on his right, and she slipped into her pocket.

Then she whizzed up Second avenue, where the young man in the gray coat and hat, who was carrying a revolver, stepped out of the car and walked toward the girl in the Gainsborough hat. Then the girl they called "Queenie" tipped across the aisle and deftly lifted his watch and fob and pin. She did this so gracefully and openly that everybody laughed—everybody but the girl in the big hat.

Handkerchief Possible Clue.
The Cuzze girl, or the girl with the big hat, carried a fluffy gray muff in her lap, which her companion passed with and laid his head on, now and then slipping it in the face of the Italian who sat on the other side of him. As the car passed Sixth street he turned toward the muff again, whereupon the girl stood up.

Shot From the Muff.

As the car passed Sixth street he turned toward the muff again, whereupon the girl stood up.

Fleeing With Revolver.
The youth in the gray coat was on his feet, sobered and alert, standing in the rear of the car. He was holding a revolver in his right hand, and he was looking toward the girl in the Gainsborough hat.

No Bed Feeling Apparent.
"The boy in the gray coat had a champagne bottle in his hand, which he waved about now and then, offering to hand-pour the head of the Italian. As the car passed Sixth street he turned toward the muff again, whereupon the girl stood up.

Slipped Revolver in Sleeve.
"The young fellow in the gray coat was on his feet, sobered and alert, standing in the rear of the car. He was holding a revolver in his right hand, and he was looking toward the girl in the Gainsborough hat.

Girls Give False Names.
The conductor, motorman, letter-carrier and the two girls were taken to the Fifth street station. The body was also carried there in a patrol wagon. Both girls were unable to talk coherently for some time.

WHEELERS ICE PACK TO BOARD STEAMBOATS Sandy Hook to Atlantic Highlands

Frozen Solid—Floes in Rivers
Almost Cause a Suspension of Ferry Traffic.

When the Government steamers General Joseph E. Johnston and Oranor, which make regular trips between this city and Sandy Hook, attempted to reach their pier at Sandy Hook this morning to land their passengers both became fast in the heavy ice, and after many attempts to get to their pier, were compelled to abandon the effort. Their passengers, numbering over fifty, finally left the boats and walked over the ice to the pier. There were as many passengers at Sandy Hook waiting to go to New York on the vessels and these, many of them women, walked out to the boats and safely boarded them from the ice. The bay from Sandy Hook to Atlantic Highlands is solidly frozen over, the ice being from one to three feet in thickness.

Ferry Traffic Most Difficult.
From shore to shore of North and East Rivers across and across of ice jammed in picturesque flocks practically paralyzed navigation in and out of New York and made ferry boat traffic an extremely hazardous task. Only a narrow channel along the west shore of the North River and the irregular paths which fifty huge railroad and steamship tugs had battered open, broke the solid area of ice cakes.

Liner Columbia Has Her Troubles.
The Anchor Liner Columbia, from Glasgow, covered with frost and ice, got in the way of the barge Hornet, which was swept from her anchorage, and had her sides scraped with queer markings. No damage was done. The anchor winches of the Columbia became disabled, and in order to get her anchored up the crew was compelled to raise it by hand.

Health Officer Doty's boats, were stalled at their docks. The Allen was only extricated after hours of work by tugs plying at the ice piles. It was after 11 o'clock when the customary examination of incoming vessels was made.

Incidental to the ice obstacles in the East River, which threw thousands of usual ferry passengers over to the mercies of the H. R. T. trains arriving at the Manhattan end of the Brooklyn Bridge were from ten to thirty minutes late. The severest congestion occurred between 8 and 8.30 o'clock.

The little coasting steamer Porto Rico, bound from Baltimore, got stuck in the ice off Quarantine and for hours was unable to make any headway. The bark Hamburg, anchored off Clinton, was solidly imprisoned in the ice until after 11 o'clock, when three great ice-proving tugs smashed a path to clear water. Two barks and a schooner were anchored off Stapleton, and another and held fast in the ice.

At the Jersey City ferry stations crowds of commuters were waiting for the pack to be broken. Above the Brooklyn Bridge the ice was very thick and packed solidly in places like a wall.

Doesn't Believe Her Story.
The Headquarters men were very sore when they heard their prisoner had confessed to the coroner after telling them a half dozen different and contradictory stories.

All Jolly, Witness Says.
The story told by Lipschitz, who is attached to the Tompkins square Police Office Station, is as follows:

X SCIENCE TREATMENT
WASTED GIRL AWAY.
(Special To The Evening World.)

ROCHESTER, N. Y., Feb. 10.—Coroner Killip today began an inquest into the cause of death of Miss Laura Wilkins, who died after long treatment by Christian Science healers.

Miss Wilkins weighed only sixty-two pounds at her death, though twenty-one years old.

Her father testified to-day that Christian Science faith had restored his sight after years of resort to glasses. He swore Christian Science had performed so many wonders that he lost all faith in medical doctors.

WISE CLERK
Quits Sandwiches and Coffee for Lunch.
The noonday lunch for the Department clerks at Washington is often a most serious question.

These clerks, "I have been working in one of the Gov't Departments. About two years ago I found myself every afternoon, with a very tired feeling in my head, trying to get the day's work off my desk."

"I had heard of Grape-Nuts as a food for brain and nerve centres, so I began to eat it instead of my usual heavy breakfast, then for my lunch instead of sandwiches and coffee."

"In a very short time the tired feeling in the head left me, and ever since then the afternoon's work has been done with as much ease and pleasure as the morning's work."

"Grape-Nuts" is a meal's a day has worked in my case. It is a versatile, producing heat, reserve force and supply of energy that does not permit one to tire easily—so essential to the successful prosecution of one's life work." There's a Reason.

FORAKER REPLIES TO ROOSEVELT'S PATRONAGE TALK

Near-Postmaster Said Taft Was Losing and Missed His Job.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 10.—On the Senate floor Senator Foraker today replied to the President's statement published this morning concerning charges that public patronage had been used by him (the President) for political purposes.

He read at length from the President's correspondence with William Dudley Foulke, and explained his own attitude toward the Federal patronage in Ohio.

"While the people of the country are not interested in specific details of appointments," said Mr. Foraker, "they are interested in the general proposition enunciated by the President, they are interested in knowing that the appointments are made with an eye single to the good of the public service."

"Fortunately we have one case in Ohio where there is written testimony. I do not charge anybody with bad faith. I suppose that the President was acting upon recommendations made to him without knowledge of the basis upon which these recommendations rested."

He referred to the recent appointment of Charles H. Bryson as postmaster of Athens, O., who, he said, was appointed without solicitation upon recommendation of Representative He then read from a local paper an interview with Mr. Bryson, in which he stated that Taft had lost his following in Ohio and Foraker had greatly grown in strength.

Mr. Bryson, said Mr. Foraker, a few days later, received a letter from Representative Douglass, telling of a talk he had had with Postmaster General Meyer. Mr. Douglass had been sent for by the President, and Mr. Bryson had decided not to appoint Mr. Bryson after all.

MRS. W. T. BURNS
National Correspondent of
W. R. C. Recommends Vinol.

She writes: "I caught a severe cold which it seemed impossible for me to get rid of. I became much run down, lost my appetite and flesh and felt nervous and irritable. VINOL was recommended, and certainly worked wonders for me. It increased my appetite and cured my cough and nervousness. I consider VINOL a wonderful remedy."

Many people right here in New York are in just her condition—all run down, hardly able to drag about, don't know what ails them. This is probably caused by a cold or cough which is hard to cure, overwork or too close confinement to business; and such people need VINOL.

VINOL is not a patent medicine, but contains the medicinal curative elements found in fresh cod's livers, with all the useless oil eliminated and tonic to add.

We ask every run-down, nervous, fatigued, aged or weak person in New York, and every person suffering from stubborn colds, hanging-on coughs or bronchitis, to try VINOL on our offer to return money.

WHERE TO GET VINOL IN N. Y.
Riker's Drug Stores, 4th Ave. and 2nd St. corner Broadway, 2nd St. opp. Waldorf. Astoria, corner 10th and Seventh Ave. at Summer Street.
